I. INTRODUCTION

The term Work Life Balance beginning was in 1986 because of the developing worries by people and organizations alike that work can impact upon the nature of family life and the other way around, along these lines offering ascend to the ideas of "family-work strife" (FWC) and "work-family struggle" (WFC).

The approaches and strategies set up by an organization for the representatives to effectively carry out their responsibilities and to give adaptability to deal with individual concerns or issues at their family.

Work life balance is a method which helps employees of an organization to balance their personal and professional lives. Work life balance encourages employees to divide their time on the basis on priorities and maintain a balance by devoting time to family, health, vacations etc.

Two things have added to the definition of work life balance where a healthy lifestyle comprises of work and family that are commonly strengthening the family encounters of labourers can advance their commitment to work and associations, and the other way around.

II. OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY

The main purpose of this study is

- A. To understand the current working schedules in bloom hospitals.
- B. To study about the implementation of work life balance practices at bloom hospital.
- C. To study the impact of work life balance on organizational development and employee's performance.

III. NEED AND IMPORTANCE OF STUDY

Work-Life balance of employees is important in many of the Government and Private Sector organizations for establishing and maintaining a productive work culture. Without creating a work-life balance a person isn't able to take time to enjoy the life they have worked so hard to create. They aren't available for friends and family members, and often take their stress out on the ones they love.

In hospitals nurses play a crucial role for the recovery of patients admitted in hospitals. Nurses need to work for extra hours, they need to work in shift systems, they will get a rotational week off, even they need to work without any festival holidays hence it will be difficult for them to manage their professional life and personal life This study is to analyze the work life balance of nursing employees at bloom hospital, the initiatives taken by the organization for work life balance and the level of employee satisfaction towards the initiatives and the impact of work life balance on their performance .

IV. SCOPE OF THE STUDY

The study focuses on finding out the factors affecting work- life balance of employees in Blooms hospital. It identifies the extent to which the employees are able to balance the personal, social and professional life.

VI. REVIEW OF LITERATURE

- A. Santosh R. S., Jain R. (2016) in their paper "Study of Effect of Commuting & Working Hours on Work Life Balance of Working Fathers in Mumbai" proved that Long working hours and long commuting hours are seriously affecting the Work Life Balance of working fathers in metro cities. There is need to research and investigate further on this subject in order to improve lives and productivity of working men in metro cities of India. This study discusses about how long working hours effect the men, as they are not able to spend quality of time with his children. It mainly emphasis on working hours of fathers who are unable to spend much time with his children since they will reach home by late nights depending upon their work in the office.
- B. Murthy M. and Shastra S. (2015) observed various issues in Work Life Balance of Parents in t the paper titled "A Qualitative Study on Work Life Balance of Employees working in private sector" like parenting issues: Need more time for children, Showing work frustration on children. Marital issues: Need more time of spouse, notable to give time to spouse. Role conflict/ Role guilt: Doubtful about how good they are in the roles that they play at home... e.g. as a mother or as a daughter in law. This study illustrates mainly about the role of women in managing the work life and personal life. In her personal life woman plays different roles compared to men like taking care of children and house and work in the organization, so how women is able to balance all his work life is discussed.
- C. Holly S. and Mohnen A. (2012) in the paper titled "Impact of working hours on work-life balance" connected working hours and satisfaction with desirable work-life balance. This balance is specific to each person and relates to satisfaction with a job and all other parts in life, especially family life and free time. Therefore, a good work- life balance results in high satisfaction. Their results show diverse perceptions and influences of job conditions on employees.

This study mainly focuses that in recent years, work–life balance has become a keyword for balancing working time and free time. In particular, time is a crucial resource for balancing work and life, because it can be allocated to either work or free time.
